World Hepatitis Day May 19, 2009

World Hepatitis Day will be observed on Tuesday May 19th and marks a brand new initiative. The day has been launched in response to the concern that chronic viral hepatitis has no where near the level of awareness nor the political will to tackle it that is seen in HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis and malaria. This is despite the fact that the numbers chronically infected with, and annually killed by, the hepatitis B and C viruses are on the same scale.

For more information on Hepatitis, go to www. Hepb.org
